

Brunch Down Under

Down in one of Shanghai's cooler areas (Taikang Lu, Tianzifang, Art Street or Magic Alley depending on who you're talking to), Australian-owned Kommune serves up a tantalizing weekend brunch on both Saturday and Sunday from 7am-6pm. Try the Big Daddy Breakfast—it's just like your mom used to cook. It includes eggs, bacon, sausage, mushrooms, potatoes, baked beans and toast for ¥85. Kids under 12 eat free before 10am with adult purchase. Be sure to try one of the home-made juices concocted on site.

Banquet in Your Home

Tired of trucking the kids around town? Get a custom-made meal prepared at home with Flying Chef (¥250 per person for a family of four plus the cost of each dish) and get a full meal with zero fuss. All hosts need to provide are drinks, a clean kitchen and plates to eat on. A wide range of Chinese staples are on the menu, including Beijing duck, Mandarin fish and even suan la tang. There's even a small range of Southeast Asian favorites like (boneless) chicken curry and Vietnamese spring rolls. The chefs speak limited English, but are always courteous and considerate, willing to tweak their dishes to suit the pickiest of eaters. And unlike your young'uns, they'll even clean up before they leave.
